WEDNESDAY, JULY 4, 1894.

FOR CONGRESS.

We are authorized to announce A. H. MONTGOMERY, as a candidate for Congress, from the Primary election, to be held on the 4th day of August, 1894.

We are authorized to announce E. MCKAY, of Breckinridge county, as a candidate for Congress, from the Primary election, to be held on the 4th day of August, 1894.

SIX PAGES.

This is the day we celebrate.

Natural gas has been struck near Crawfordville, Ind.

Good roads are the only salvation for Breckinridge county.

CARL Richardson will handle himself all right on the stump.

The coal miners have most all returned to the mines to work in Ohio country.

MONTGOMERY newspapers are extravagantly eloquent when speaking of McKay.

The News is glad to see County Judge Addison wakin up on the subject of good roads.

The bill to admit New Mexico as a State has passed the Lower house of Congress.

A SOCIALIST doesn't want anything he must work for, but he does want what other people work for.

The information comes through the most reliable sources that Montgomery can't carry Hardin county.

The Supreme Court of the State will expire by limitation on January 1 next. Three Judges will be retired.

BILL COLLINS, of Owensboro, can start more circuituses and go broke than Bill Stettini, of Hawesville, can newswapers.

Col. Ernest Forbes is writing some interesting letters to the Fordville Star on his recent trip through Breckinridge county.

How long since you read the "Declaration of Independence"? If you are not familiar with the document read up on it, today.

The Populists will hold a mass meeting at Hardinsburg, the third Monday in July. That looks like they want to get into the fight again.

MURRAY has a good following in Meade county. His friends say he will carry the county while Montgomery's friends claim it is two to one for him.

The Executive Committee of the Kentucky League of Democratic clubs have decided to hold the next State Convention at Lexington, Ky., some time in September.

EVERY American can rejoice to-day in his own particular way. It is the Fourth of July and the American eagle still flies his wings and covers over a great country and a free people.

Ma. Montgomery is in Washington and gives it out through his friends that he will not come into the district until Congress adjourns. If it holds 'till August he will stay with it.

The friends of Chapman Wathen think he is too good a lawyer to feel his time away with a State office. The News' advice to Mr. Wathen is to let politics severely alone and stick to the law.

There are about four Kentucky Congressmen and no less than three Indiana Congressmen each claiming the sole honor of getting the appropriation for the improvement of Navigation on Green river.

For the benefit of many inquiring friends who wish to know where Dave Murray is, "at," we will say that he is advertised to speak to day at every Fourth-of-July picnic in the Fourth Congressional District.

Judge M. D. Brown of Hopkinsville is as honest as he is handsome, the News is him for Lieutenant Governor, of Kentucky. Send us his picture, brother Meacham, and we'll let the readers of the News take a look at him.

Tax College Edition of the Georgetown Times was an interesting and attractive number of that good old solar paper. It was a splendid advertisement for one of the best colleges in the State and the beautiful little City of Georgetown.

Judge Adkinson ought not to delay his order calling the Fiscal court together to adopt measures for the improvement of our roads. If there is anything this county needs it is good county roads. Call the court together at once, Judge, and let the good work proceed.

The Republicans of the Fourth Congressional District assembled at Lebanon last Wednesday and nominated Hon. John W. Lewis, of Washington county, for Congress. He is probably the best man that the Republics have, he will make a good a race as could be expected of any Republican. The convention was the largest the Republicans ever held in the district.

BEARING FRUIT.

Which of the Many Systems of Religion Now Prevailing Suit You Best?

A Christian Civilization With All Its Faults Is The Highest Yet Known.

PRODUCES THE BEST RESULTS.

The truth of the Gospel * * * brighten forth—Colossians 1, 5, 6.

Every tree that was designed to be fruit bearing will accomplish its mission, but in its wild state it will produce very poor fruit. It may be a beautiful, symmetrical and vigorous tree, but the apples are quite useless for domestic purposes.

The intelligent farmer recognizes the fact that he can change the character of his wild trees and force them to produce something of marketable value. In the course of a few years he can alter the complexion of affairs that will have a profitable orientation, may possibly find new models of success, and the roots in the ground to give them a better opportunity, or, in the language of modern psychology, furnish them with a new environment, but something more is necessary.

We shall not wait long before reaching the goal of a Christian civilization with all its faults in the world yet known; A Christian opinion is the fairest and most just; a Christian manhood is closest to the ideal. These facts are indisputable.

Throw your mere creed to the winds, for they are a mere and a confusion, and do not bring you any comfort.

You have no use for them, if they are only an impediment.

But take the words of the Teacher, and incorporate them into your life. Begin with that love for your kind which makes every sufferer your neighbor; convince yourself that there is a meaning in all the events in life, and that a kindly Providence has a plan for you for your good; look forward to a life beyond the grave; and you will have the best life that the human mind can conceive.

Christianity rests solely on the fact that it can do more for us and make more of us than any other religion known to man. There is no mystery in it. It helps us to live honestly and to die bravely, therefore we defend and support it—New York Herald.

is worthless in the way of general happiness than the life of the humblest artisan who has made the most of himself and the environment and the best of himself.

The object of religion, then, is to draw out your finer qualities, and that is most effectively done by giving you a sense of responsibility, so that you will represent a noble present and a hopeful future, for you must have a future in order to have a present. See what you will, a belief in immortality is necessary to a thoroughly developed and symmetrical soul.

Well, which of the many systems of religion which prevail in different quarters of the globe will accomplish this?

Will you go to Buddhism for this divine impulse, or to Confucius, or to Zaroorat, or to Mohammed, or to Christianity? Remember, we have no prejudices either for or against any of these movements. We stand outside of them all, determined to judge with absolute impartiality.

We look with a critical eye, because very important indeed is the question of what will represent the best system of government, coming from a crowd of comparative strangers, showed very little interest in the question, and were evidently too busy to listen to it in time.

Mr. A. X. Murray's remarks were frequently interrupted by applause which, coming from a crowd of apprentices, was a decided proof that he was well received.

JEFFERSON.

When And Where The Democratic Sage Wrote The Declaration of Independence.

His Being Selected to Write the Paper Was Not Merely Accidental.

'TWAS AN EVOLUTION.

The Declaration of Independence was written by Thomas Jefferson at some time between the 11 and 28th of June, 1776. He was then 33 years of age, which falls on Friday, and presented to Congress by its author on the morning of that day. To the curious it affords another illustration of the distinction of Friday in American history. It was on Friday that Columbus sailed out of the harbor of Palos in search of a new route to India. It was on Friday, moreover, that he caught sight of the coral reefs of Watling island. It was on Friday that the Declaration of Independence was set on its passage through Congress. It was on Friday, and the day is still remembered with grief by thousands that Abraham Lincoln died, a martyr to the sacred principles he daily set forth by Jefferson 59 years ago.

Jefferson was then 33 years of age. He came from a family of the middle class in Virginia, as did Washington, Henry, Marshall and Madison. He became related to the Randolphs by marriage, but the proud old family of his wife, Elizabeth, had despised him as an upstart and a leveling.

They never sympathized with his Democratic ideas. At the time of writing the Declaration Jefferson was lodging, as he records in a letter written nearly 50 years later, in the house of a Mr. Graff, a young bricklayer, situated on the south side of Market street between the Seventh and Eighth streets. He thought that it was the corner house, and posterity has approved the idea by placing a bronze memorial tablet on the north wall of the national bank since erected on the spot where the Great Grant stood.

In that house Jefferson rented the second floor, consisting of a parlor and bedroom, and "in that parlor," says he, "I wrote habitually and in it wrote this paper particularly."

The choice of Jefferson to write the paper was not accidental. The course of events led to his selection with the pre-arrangement of the author. When he wrote the Declaration the idea of American independence was scarcely six months old. The history of government affords no finer illustration of the evolution of an idea than in that of the idea of American independence. The anglo-Saxons are not born a political conspirator. He thinks out the state, invents his plan, discusses it with his friends, has open discussion, and there, obedient to parliamentary forms, he reduces his thoughts in orderly manner in a written instrument, which he submits to the considerate judgment of mankind. Such was the history of the Declaration of Independence. It had its origin in the Anglo-Saxon race. Its character, its ideas are generic with the race.—Philadelphia Press.
